TO THE DEPARTMENT OF THE PACIFIC. WASHINGTON, May 22.
On the 13th of April last Major-General W. S. Hancock addressed the following telegraphic dispatch to Gen. W. T. Sherman, dated St. Louis:

If my rank will not entitle me to a division, and the changes in the departments are such as to make it practicable, I would prefer this (St. Louis) station. I leave at once for St. Paul." The next day the following telegram was sent in reply:

Idors. Armies of the United States WASHINGTON, D. C., April 14, 1870.

Gen. W. S. HANCOCK—General: I have aid your dispatches of the 13th from St. Louis, before the President, who authority of the control of the control of the President, who authority of the President o laid your dispatches of the 13th from St.
Louis, before the President, who authorizes me to say that your wishes and claims for the succession to the command of the military division of the Pacific, made vacant by General Thomas's death, wore fairly onn-idered, and also your preference for the Department of Missouri, in case of a change of its commander, were also known to him, but he has ordered otherwise. The President has authorized me to say to you that it belongs to his office to select the Commanding Generals of Divisions and Departments, and that the relations you chose to assume toward him officially and privately absolve him from regarding your personal preferences.

The order announcing those changes

Missouri.
I am, with respect, yours truly,
W. T. Sherman, General.
HEADQ'RS, DEPARTMENT OF DAKOTA.
ST. PAUL. Minn., April 27, 1870.
TO GEN. W. T. SHERMAN—General

onneeded to it.

I am very respectfully your obedient servant, Winehlld S. Hancock, Major General U. S. A.

The above correspondence has been copied from the telegrams and letters on file in the War Department, and it will be perceived that the following words recently attributed to Gen. Sherman do not appear in the letter of this gentleman: "I am requested by the President to inform you that there is nothing in your personal relations to Gen. Grant, or in your official relations to his administration, that could reactions to his mannistration, that could justify your promotion now, or lead you to expect it hereafter."

The reference in Gen. Sherman's letter to the "relations" which Gen. Huncock "chose to assume toward him (the Presidense toward him)). "chose to assume toward him (the President) edent) officially and privately," and absolving the President from regarding Gen.

Hancock's "personal preferences," is thus explained: At the time the Reconstruction acts were put in operation, Gen. Hancock was transferred from the Department of the Missouri to the District of Louisien and Gen. Grant, as General-in-Chief, modified or revoked one of Gen. Hancock's orders, to which the latter took strong personal exception. Shortly after, by order of the President, Gen. Hancock was assigned to the command of the Division of the Atlantic, and came to Washington. He went to Gen. Grant's head quarters, but instead of calling upon him personally, simply registered his name, which was unusual and considered discourteous.

Gen. Grant lawing up hypowledge. By the gentlest reasoning she sought to convince him of his utter unfitness to be the husband of any descent woman; and, in the openness of her guideless nature, even showed him a letter of advice from one of her female friends, in which he was guardedly mentioned as an "Insane Fraud." Instead of meeting this touching confidence in the self-sacrificing spirit of its offering, and at once consenting to an almonial separation from a woman who could not longer, with any regard for self-respect, remain his wife, the brutal madman burst at once into a fit of hereditary invanity, and frenziedly rejected the proposition in the most Irish manner. Now, too, the hapless slave of his fiendish passion noticed, for the first time, that his face was greatly flushed as though by brutalizing liquor, and that his voice was thickened and his eyes were moistened by what was,

which was determined to the courteous.

Gen. Grant, having no knowledge or apprehension that Gen. Hancock was offended with him, meeting him on the street shortly afterward, accosted him in a friendly way: "Good morning, Hancock."

To this Gen. Hancock made no verbal response, but merely touched his hat, and

The morning session of the Presbyt rian General Assembly was occupied with further discussion of the reconstruction report. The final items on the boundaries of synods was noted upon. The Synod of Iowa North will embrace all the counties recommended by the committee; that of Iowa South will comprise the southern part of the State, with Nobraska and Wyoming Territory. The Synod of Missouri will be cotemporaneous with the State Synod of Kansus, and extends over that State, Colorado, New Mexico, and the Indian Territory. The Synod of the Pacific will embrace all west of the Rocky Mountains. That of India comprises all the missionaries and churches in that country. The item of forming a Synod of Church Reffael—M. Meixner's statue of Maximilian of Mexico, "Kaiser Max," as the Germans love to call him, is finished, but still remains in his studio. It is a bronze state, representing the Emperor in full military dress, and is eight feet high. It will be placed on a pedestal of Italian marble.

on a pedestal of Italian marble.

A new method of coloring photographs is spoken of in Berlin, by which the dauby, smeary appearance, so often complained of in tinted photographs, is done away with, and the colors are so put on as to seem to have been done by the same process by which the photograph itself was created.

The Opposition is bentering Eismonich

The Opposition is bentering Bismarck on his continued illness. It is said that he has the jaundice, and his opponents assert that he has such fits of passion when things don't work together to please him that his gall literally runs over.

John Huber, a German political writer John Huber, a German political writer of some note, has written a series of papers called "Popedom and State Interests," which goes rather against the dynasty of Peter. The King of Bavaria was so pleased on reading them that he wrote the author a letter, indersing his views.

Field Marshal Von Hess, who died lately at Vienna, was S3 years old. His name is prominent in the records of most of the battles from Aspun and Wagram to

In Germany a certain drema called the "Curse of Gallilee," aimed against the Ecumenical Council, is received with favor. Lately it was played at Gratz, and caused various invectives to be hurled at the Council. The words, "ye accursed priestly inquisitors." called forth a thunder of applause.

At Hamburg the ship-carpenters are on a strike. They wish to force the ship-builders to agree not to employ men from any other place so long as there are other unemployed men of the craft in their own town willing to work. The masters have had a meeting, and have concluded not to accede to their wishes.
